DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This Office action is response to the RCE filed on 2/24/2005. Consequently, claims 17 – 22 have been added. Claims 1 – 22 are currently pending for further processing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1 – 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1, 5, 13 - 16 recite the limitation "each template file being effective, when applied to a content file" in second limitation of these claims respectively. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1 - 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Donohue et al (U.S. 5,987,480) in view of Christensen et al (U.S. 6,055,543).

♦ As per claim 1, 5, 9 – 10, 13 – 16, the combination of Donohue and Christensen disclose:

Art Unit: 2161

Donohue et al (U.S. 5,987,480) discloses a method of managing information bearing content files stored in a computer file system, comprising:

- “The computer file system being divided into directories” col. 13 lines 22 – 26.
- “Locating one or more content files” corresponds to the command to locate documents (col. 7 lines 27 – 30).
- The “content files” corresponds to the “documents” that stored in the data source 12 in Fig. 1 (col. 7 lines 35 – 44).
- “Associating one or more template files with each directory in which at least one content file is stored” See col. 5 lines 25 – 31. The documents stored in the web server contain different formats; therefore, when applying to the template, it will carry out a respective predetermined operation on the documents (col. 1 lines 57 – 65).
- “Applying the or each template file associated with a given directory to each content file stored in that directory” col. 7 lines 15 – 22.
- “Wherein the respective directory in which each content file is stored determines which of the or each template file is applied” col. 5, lines 63 – 67, col. 10, lines 43 – 48.

Donohue teaches that the data source and the templates, which organized in a directory, are stored on the server computer, but does not clearly teach that the directory stores the content file and the template. However, Christensen discloses a search system that the content file and the metadata are stored together in a content wrapper that is organized in a directory (col. 4, lines 55 – 56, 64 – 67, col. 5, lines 26 – 28, col. 6, lines 35 – 36). Both inventions are in the same filed (search and delivery document to user using metadata). Donohue and Christensen suggest that the invention may be modified to archive the scope of the claims (col. 14, lines 28 – 36, Donohue; col. 4, lines 41 – 47, Christensen).

It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to substitute the name-value in Donohue invention by the content file of Christensen because the combination would reduce the network traffic in searching for data. Only the metadata is accessed to perform the search (col. 5 lines 63 – col. 6 lines 5, Christensen), rather than the entire of document.

◆ As per claim 2, 6, the combination of Donohue and Christensen disclose:

- “The computer file system is divided into a hierarchical arrangement of directories” col. 5 lines 26 – 30, Donohue.

◆ As per claim 3, 7, the combination of Donohue and Christensen disclose:

Donohue teaches that the templates are stored in the directory. Each associate with a particular document or group of documents (col. 5 lines 26 – 30, Donohue.); therefore, the association of a template with a directory is made on the basis of the template file being stored in that directory.

◆ As per claim 4, 8, the combination of Donohue and Christensen disclose:

- “Associating metadata with each content file” See Fig. 3, col. 5 lines 8 – 10, Christensen.
- “Carrying out the respective pre-determined operation on each content file... metadata” col. 1 lines 57 – 65, Donohue.

◆ As per claim 11 – 12, the combination of Donohue and Christensen disclose:

Art Unit: 2161

- “ The association of a template with a directory is made on the basis of the template file being stored in at least one of that directory and a parent directory of that directory” col. 10, lines 43 – 48, Donohue.
- ◆ As per claim 17 - 22, the combination of Donohue and Christensen disclose:
  - “ Wherein the applying the or each template file associated with a given directory to each content file stored in that directory generates a corresponding template information-bearing file whose appearance is controlled by the or each associated template file” See the abstract of Donohue. The “corresponding template information-bearing file” corresponds to the “populated document” that is delivered to the user computer.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 2/24/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the combination of Donohue and Christensen fails to teach a computer file system storing both one or more content files and one or more template files and being divided into directories”. The Examiner respectfully disagrees.

As discussed above, Donohue discloses a template directory; each template is corresponding to one of a plurality of documents (see col. 5, lines 24 – 31). Christensen discloses a retrieval system that the content file and the metadata are stored together (see the abstract of Christensen). As the result of the combination, the invention clearly includes a template directory (Donohue) that associated with a corresponding document (content file in Christensen).
